

Most print shops will have their own online editor to design your post card. Be mindful of the margin, bleed, and trim. See below:

Once you have your design, double check that the graphic is completely within the printable area. Some editors will give a warning if your design will be cut off, but not all.

Before you submit your order, be sure to double check the graphic is positioned the way you like and nothing is cut off.